

Pouring Rain

Written by Ellen.Tossel

Pitta! Patter! Bang! The rain started to pour over June and Victoria's house.

“Ugh”

moaned June,

“Just another boring rainy day”

June mumbled. He was fidgeting with his thumbs and staring out the window.

June was gazing out the into the blue fluffy mountains.He watched his mum drive the car into the garage from the top of the apartment .

”Ugh it won’t stop raining”
moaned June.

June and Victoria's mum went for a walk to get supplies from Cotten Grove Boulevard.

“Victoria, mum has been away for a while”

Meanwhile, at the shops as the floods were rising , and mum and dad's waist was under water. Soon the famous devil's horn's fell on mum and dad’s car.

June and Victoria got the devastating news that their mum and dad were dead. June's face was smothered in tears, his shoulders slumped. For the next few days June and Victoria have to collect the remainders of the food rotten vegetables was a treat, They'd have boiled lettuce for their daily meal.

June and Victoria finally find a food bank called Cottem Grove Food Bank. As they were walking to the Food bank, a flash of lightning struck right next to Victoria. She leaped out the way as fast as a cheetah “That was a close one”
Victoria sighed.

After eight days of pouring rain, the rain finally stopped. June sprinted outside to see the aftermath of the rain. "Victoria! Victoria!" cried June. The rain has finally stopped. Victoria ran outside to look at the destruction of the rain. There was wood and broken bricks scattered throughout the yard. The farm in the distances had been destroyed. There was horses and sheep running wild on the roads. IT WAS CHAOS.

They were delighted by a bright seven colour rainbow to cheer them up.”Were should we start? Questioned Victoria

“Maybe in OUR yard, let’s do it tomorrow though”

June answerd.So June and Victoria went back in Side and saw if the tv was back on,so for the rest of the day June and Victoria watched tv.

